

COPYRIGHT COMPLIANCE CHART

FOR SCHOOLS AND EDUCATORS

WORK	SOURCE	AUTHOR	OWNER	LICENSE	FAIR USE	DOCUMENTATION (PROOF OF PERMISSION)	DATE ACCESSED
IMAGES/PHOTOS
EXAMPLE: Photo of the U.S. Capitol Building	Flickr [Enter URL here]	[Enter Flickr username if a legal name isn't available]	Enter owner's name. Contact if necessary to confirm the person who uploaded the image to Flickr is the owner.]	Creative Commons Attribution	No – photo will be used in class website design	[Enter the URL for the photo on Flickr where the license is referenced] [Enter the URL for the specific license accessed via the image page on Flickr. Example: https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/2.0/]	10/1/15
TEXT
EXAMPLE: Blog post about kinetic energy	[Enter URL of blog post]	[Enter name of post author]	[Enter name of post copyright owner]	No license provided, assume copyright protected	Yes – text will be used as study material for chemistry test	Since this piece will be used strictly for educational purposes and will not be redistributed beyond classroom study materials, it is covered by fair use.	10/15/15
AUDIO/MUSIC
EXAMPLE: Music from Star Wars	[Enter URL where the audio was downloaded]	[Enter composer of specific piece]	[Enter copyright owner (might require a web search)]	Copyright protected	No – the music will be used in a video that will be uploaded to the class website and could be shared online	[To legally use the music, you must request permission to do so from the copyright owner. Enter the date of such correspondence and who provided permission to use the image to you. Save this correspondence.]	10/20/15
VIDEO
EXAMPLE: YouTube video about the U.S. branches of government from a lecture delivered by an author at an event	[Enter YouTube video URL]	[Enter the presenter's name]	[Enter the video owner. This could be the presenter or event host. To identify, you might have to contact them.]	No license provided, assume copyright protected	Yes, the video will be shown in the classroom only for educational purposes	Since this piece will be used strictly for educational purposes, specifically face-to-face instruction, and will not be redistributed beyond the classroom, it is covered by fair use.	10/29/15